Emory undergraduates are invited to apply for a new Russian Studies Scholarship. Designed to support undergraduate study abroad, the scholarships are granted competitively twice each academic year. Applications are reviewed by an inter-program faculty committee. Funding levels vary according to availability of resources and applicant pool.

DEADLINES FOR 2012-2013:

- March 1, 2012 (for Summer 2012)
- May 15, 2012 (for Fall 2012/Spring 2013)

Eligibility:
- Applicants are expected to participate in an Emory Program or Emory-approved program abroad in Russia.
- Applicants must have a 3.0 GPA and be registered Emory students
- Before the term abroad, applicants must have successfully completed two years of Russian language study (16 credits) at any level, and demonstrate a strong interest in Russian Studies.

Application Process:
Applications must be received by 5 pm on the posted deadline-date in the REALC office (202 D Modern Languages building). Only completed applications will be considered.

Applications from students must include:
- a completed 1-page application form (see website)
- a 1-2 page essay explaining reasons for going abroad.
- Students intending to undertake research or service projects in Russia should submit a description of their proposed project.
- 2 letters of recommendation from Emory faculty
- 1 copy of applicant’s academic transcript
